Numb. 2148

MONDAY, APRIL 18. 1743.

Since our laſt arrived a Mail from Flanders.

Hamburgh, April 19.

LETTERS from Berlin dated the 16th, ſay, that M. Czernichef, the Ruſſian Envoy, had lately two private Audiences of his Majeſty, on account of ſome Commiſſion of no Importance from his Court. That immediately after the laſt, Orders were iſſued for the March of 13,000 Men towards Lentzen, where they are to encamp. The ſame Letters ſay, that they ſtill arreſt Perſons of all Ranks daily at Petersbourg, on account of certain dark Deſigns that are carrying on there; which is conceived to be the Reaſon that the Court is ſo deſirous of making Peace with Sweden. It is likewiſe ſaid, that his Pruſſian Majeſty having received certain Diſpatches from Count Dhona, his Miniſter at the Court of Vienna, immediately invited the Engliſh and Hungarian Miniſters to a Conference; ſince which a Rumour prevails, that his Majeſty will ſpeedily march a Body of Troops to join the Army of the Allies. Thus much is certain, that the King appears highly pleas'd with the Readineſs ſhewn by the Court of Vienna to compromiſe all Matters in Difference with his Imperial Majeſty, and with the ſtrict Orders given to the Auxiliary Forces not to act in any manner againſt the Emperor, his Country, or Subjects; but againſt ſuch Strangers only as ſhall be found committing Hoſtilities againſt the Queen of Hungary and Bohemia.

Vienna, April 6. We learn from Paſſau, that Veldt Marſhal Khevenhuller was arrived there from Scarden on the 29th of laſt Month, and that he had conferr'd with General Brown, who commands in Chief our Forces on both Sides the Danube. His Excellency intends next to go and meet Prince Lobkowitz, in order to ſettle with him the Operations of the Campaign; and in the mean time, Orders have been iſſued for holding a Body of Troops in conſtant Readineſs to march to the Succour of his Highneſs, in caſe the French ſhould attempt, with all their Forces, the Relief of Egra. They give out, that Marſhal Broglio has received preciſe Orders from his Court on this Head, which is the Reaſon that all is in Motion towards the Upper Palatinate. But we ſuſpect that all this is a Feint, in order firſt of all to hinder, if poſſible, the Queen's Journey to Prague; and ſecondly, to conceal their true Deſign of penetrating thro' the Archbiſhoprick of Saltzbach into Auſtria, which, it is ſaid, Count Seckendorff has undertaken, in Conjunction with the Count de Saxe, the only French General with whom he can agree. But we are not very apprehenſive of any thing he and his Peaſants can perform, ſince, tho' his Army may be numerous, yet it is certainly compoſed, for the moſt part, of raw Troops, a great part of which are forced Men, and who certainly would take the firſt Opportunity of quitting the Service, if they were able. Yet theſe are the People who are to do this great Feat, while the Count de Saxe, with his French Forces, are to endeavour to keep Marſhal Khevenhuller at Bay, and prevent his ſuccouring the Troops we have already on that Side.

Franckfort, April 17. Count Montijo followed his Imperial Majeſty this Afternoon, and the reſt of the Foreign Miniſters are preparing to do the ſame. Count Konigsfeldt, Vice-Chancellor of the Empire, is ſet out for Mentz, to aſſiſt at the Election, where either Baron Caſſelſtadt or Count Oſtein will certainly be choſen. It is reported that the French are advanced as far as Spire, and have actually taken Poſſeſſion of that City. The Commiſſaries of the Electorate of Mentz are providing, with all imaginable Diligence, vaſt Quantities of Proviſion and Forage for the Uſe of the Queen of Hungary's Auxiliaries; which are not, however, like to get into that Neighbourhood ſo ſoon as was expected. The Rhine and the Main have both overflow'd, the Waters of the former have forc'd the Sluice near Worms, borne down three Villages, and at preſent cover all the flat Country, ſo that there is no Marching till the Weather is better. An Expreſs is this Moment arrived with the unexpected News, that a great Body of Troops are in full March from the Tyrol, in order to penetrate into Bavaria.

Aix la Chapelle, April 18. To-morrow the Earl of Stair willl ſet out from hence towards the Rhine, in order to put himſelf at the Head of his Majeſty's Troops, which are upon their March to paſs that River in eight Columns at Andernach oppoſite to Coblentz. Orders are given to the Engliſh Horſe, and the reſt of the Hanoverian Troops which remained in Brabant, to march up to the Army with all Expedition; and Lieutenant General Campbell is to remain here till the Arrival of thoſe Troops in this Neighbourhood.

Aix la Chapelle, April 19. We have had heavy Snows theſe fifteen Days paſt, which ſtill continue, and all the Inclemency of Weather that is uſual in theſe Parts in the Month of January. Lord Stair is this Day ſet out to paſs the Rhine, and propoſes to be at Neuwied, to meet and confer with the Duke d'Aremberg, on Sunday or Monday next. General Clayton is expected here on Monday next.

Liege, April 19. We have the worſt Seaſon here that ever was known, which muſt equally retard the March of the Troops on all Sides. The Roofs of Houſes are cover'd with Snow even in this Town, but in the Country, particularly in the Ardenneſs, where the Snow lodges, 'tis ſaid to be two Foot deep.

Hague, April 23. The Advices from Ferrara of the 7th Inſtant mention, that on the 1ſt, a Body of Auſtrian Huſſars being advanced as far as Forli in the Romagna, and having fallen upon the Rear of M. de Gages Army, the Spaniards were at firſt put into Diſorder; but that they having received a Supply of 800 Horſe, the Auſtrians found themſelves forced to make their Retreat: The ſame Letters add, that about Fifty Men have been killed on each Side. The Province of Zealand has not yet ſent in her Reſolution upon the Propoſition of Holland for the March of 20,000 Men, the Town of Zierikzee not having hitherto come into it. They write from Nuremberg of the 11th of this Month that the Bavarians had been worſted at Burgleenfelt, and abandoned by the French, and that the Auſtrians had taken the Poſt of Vilzheven.

Oſtend, April 23. The Tranſports with Brigadier-General Brag's Regiment, arrived Yeſterday in this Road, and came ſafe into the Harbour this Morning: They lie on board To-night, and go in Bilanders To-morrow for Bruges.

Lieutenant-Colonel Ingram to be Adjutant-General in the room of Lord Crawford.

Yeſterday Morning a Fire broke out at Mr. Harthup's, a Sugar Baker in Rupert Street, Goodmans Fields, which did conſiderable Damage before it was extinguiſhed.

By a Letter from Madeira, dated March 23, N. S. we are inform'd, that about the Middle of January laſt two Spaniſh Privateers ſailed from the Canaries for the Coaſt of Africa; they both belong to the Havanna. One is a Snow that mounts 14 Carriage Guns, ſix Pounders, 14 Swivels, and 130 Men. The other is a Schooner of 10 Carriage Guns, four Pounders, ten Swivels, and 90 Men. They are both under the Direction of one Matthias Beeton, an Engliſhman, bred up under Capt. Tho. Groſs, in the Guiney Trade. He is perfectly acquainted with every Part of the Coaſt, and it is believed here that he will do a great deal of Miſchief.

Yeſterday Morning the Houſe of Mr. Fox, a Wine Merchant in Savage Gardens, was robb'd of a great Quantity of Plate; how the Rogues got in, or made off, is not known. The Watchman's Stand is at the Houſe.

By a Letter from Gibraltar, dated March 2, we hear, that the Spaniſh Regiſter Ship taken by Capt. Greenvil, in his Majeſty's Ship the Romney, on the Coaſt of Portugal, is in part unloaded; 473 Serons of Cochineal, and 76 Cheſts of Silver, being already landed. It is not doubted but there is more Silver on board. The reſt of her Cargo conſiſts of Hides, Indico, and Tobacco.
